The Ministers Write...

From Rev. Kim Plumpton

Dear Friends,

Invitations to special events are always a welcome surprise, so I was delighted when I was asked if I would like to attend an international conference at the House of Lords, commemorating Human Rights Day in December. It was led by the Universal Peace Federation (UPF), in partnership with the Women's Federation for World Peace (WFWP), a non-governmental organisation connected to the UN. The central question we were asked to engage with was: How far have we progressed?

200 international delegates gathered from around the world, with 17 speakers from the House of Lords, Baronesses and Rt. Hon MPs, as well as a Nobel Peace Prize winner and eminent people from the diplomatic and human rights field. I felt so honoured to be in such esteemed company and overwhelmed by the enormity of this shared experience. It was such a privilege to be in the company of those who have given so much in the pursuit of peace. It seemed as we listened to the speeches, the answer to the question was: we have so much further to go.

Whilst I was sitting in the benches, admiring the huge paintings on the wall, I wondered what policies might have been challenged and fought over in those very rooms. In what way had the political and moral framework of our society been considered and determined by this group of individuals on behalf of so many? Unlike the House of Commons, members of the House of Lords are appointed. Membership of the House of Lords is made up of Lords Spiritual and Lords Temporal. There are currently 26 Lords Spiritual, who sit in the Lords by virtue of their ecclesiastical role in the established Church of England. The Lords Temporal make up the rest of the membership; of these, the majority are life peers who are appointed by the Monarch on the advice of the Prime Minister, or on the advice of the House of Lords Appointments Commission. How far have we progressed? Might be an interesting question to ask when we consider the political and economic situation we find ourselves in.

But our lives although affected by the statutes and policies ratified in that very place, are not determined by them on a spiritual level. Some would say that religion has no place in politics and that revelation of profound truths can only be found in the realms of ecclesiastical territory. Yet I know that there are many Christian MPs who face the challenges of trying to make a difference in a secular world.

In this season of epiphany, where God begins to reveal himself to us in even greater ways, I would ask you to consider praying for Christian MPs and Lords in the Houses of Parliament, that God's revelation and discernment might be given to them, so each might receive guidance concerning ethical, moral and social justice issues. They can make a real difference to people's lives; they need our prayers, particularly in this time of political and economic uncertainty. Making the right decision is not easy when you are under so much pressure to deliver.

With every blessing

Kim

From Rev. Ian Howarth

Dear Friends,

A happy new year to you all!

Within the Methodist tradition an important part of our observance of New Year is the Covenant Service, and it is a great joy to me that across the pastorate all five churches will have an opportunity to share in a Covenant Service this year.

The service offers us an opportunity to make what could be seen as a spiritual New Year's resolution of our commitment to Christ for the coming year. The commitment and the promises we make in the service are far reaching: 'I am no longer my own, but yours' we say: 'Put me to what you will, rank me with whom you will, put me to doing, put me to suffering... I freely and wholeheartedly yield all things to your pleasure and disposal.'

Such commitment is a challenge to us all, but it has to be seen in the context of God's commitment to us, shown above all in his reaching out in love to us in Jesus.

As we look ahead to 2012, we face an uncertain world. Economic recovery seems a long way away, the world wide damage to the environment and the growth of global warming seem unstoppable, the peace of the world seems a distant dream.

But after the waiting of Advent we proclaim a God who has come into this uncertain world in his love, to bring peace, justice and hope. In our Covenant service we are pledging our whole lives to work with God, so that his will may be done on earth as it is in heaven.

In the current climate the way of Jesus is more important than ever, a way of love and care, particularly for the vulnerable, a way of challenge to the powers of greed and violence. For us to follow Jesus on that way we need to be sustained by vibrant supportive communities of prayer and worship, and that is what I pray with God's help we are working for our churches to be.

The challenges of 2012 are all too real, but so is the promise of God to lead us through them on the way of Jesus, in the power of the Holy Spirit.

Yours in Christ,

Ian

A big THANK YOU to everyone who helped at the Christmas Bazaar.

We had very stiff competition with five other Fairs [including the local school].

However, having hot bacon rolls and the best Bazaar, we raised a staggering £900 in aid of Help4Heroes and Besom.

50th Anniversary celebrations 22nd - 23rd September 2012

As you know in September we will be celebrating the fact that the church has been a presence in the community for 50 years. As a church we intend to celebrate this by holding a flower festival, concert and a special service of Harvest on the Sunday. By inviting former members and ministers it should be a weekend to remember. It will be a journey that will remind us where we have come from, who we are and how we might engage with the future.

At the first meeting in December attended by Rev. Normal Edsall, Brian Manners, Jean Magill, Anita Latham and myself, we enjoyed a morning looking at old photos and historical documents. Even finding some photos of the Rev. John Bates, first minister of the Congregational Church. Our intention is to encourage displays around the church whilst inviting flower displays from user groups and organisations in the community. But we need your help, we would like to present a picture of the church from 1962-2012. If you have any old photos of events around the church or documents that you think might be helpful we would be delighted to receive them. (Please make sure that you put your name on the package so that we can return them when we have finished).

It should be an exciting weekend and we look forward to celebrating the wonderful and undoubtedly challenging moments that constitute 50 years of Cobham history.

Lent course beginning February for six weeks

Although we have only just entered January we need to think a little ahead and talk about this year's Lent course. Although I led the study last year, 2012 is the year we share in ecumenical study. This year Rev. Jeremy Cresswell from St Andrews Oxshott, has written a course entitled "The graceful life" focusing on text from Romans.

Session one: Chapter 1: - The resurrection of Jesus Christ
 - The revelation of God in creation
 - The wrath of God

Session two: Chapters 2 and 3:
 - Where is justice to be found?
 - The faithfulness of God in Christ

Session three: Chapters 4 and 5:
 -The coming of righteousness
 -Faith and grace

Session four: Chapters 6, 7 and 8:1-27
 -Baptism and our life in Jesus Christ
 -The victorious life of the Spirit

Session five: Chapter 8:28-39, and chapters 9, 10 and 11:
 -Predestination and election
 -The destiny of Israel "all will be saved"

Session six: Chapters 12-15
 -life in the body of Christ
 -Attitudes to the state etc.

I think the course presents us with some excellent material and an opportunity to experience ecumenical study, where we can enjoy the richness of each denomination in discussion. I encourage you to consider placing your name on the sign up sheet at church. You will need to decide which day you prefer and whether you would like to join a study group in the afternoon or evening. Remember that the course will be for six weeks. Karen Banks is co-ordinating the groups and will need to have the details by the end of January, so please make sure that you have filled in the sheet in these coming weeks. I will certainly be attending and I hope that you might consider it too...

Week of accompanied prayer 23rd - 27th April 2012

Do you find yourself wanting a deeper relationship with God? Do you find it difficult to pray? Would you like to know more about different ways of praying?

Then perhaps the week of accompanied prayer is for you. The term 'prayer' refers to our interaction with God. This can be in a number of ways: through contemplating scripture, through waiting on God, through bringing what is in our hearts to God. It can be different for each person.

A week of accompanied prayer provides people an opportunity to deepen their relationship with God, without going away for a residential retreat. The participants agree to spend half an hour each day with an experienced prayer companion. The half hour with the guide can be in the day time or the evening.

Prayer companions or guides are drawn from a network of trained spiritual directors from several denominations, and all have been trained in accompanying people in this way. The companion is a listener, who gives the participant the opportunity to articulate his or her own experience, and to explore different ways of praying.

Although I have never experienced accompanied prayer, I know many people who have and they have always remarked on the benefits they have found from engaging with it. So I encourage you to give this initiative some thought. If you want to know more, there are leaflets at the church and you will need to make sure that you fill in the application form and send it off before the end of January.

Birthday Dates to celebrate this month

We wish a very Happy Birthday to Philip Bearden on 4th and Charles Dawson on 29th.

I'd also like to apologise for last month's printing error which I'm sure you all spotted... poor Joan was NOT 90 in December... fortunately she has a wonderful sense of humour and thought it was hilariously funny. Phew! Thank you, Joan.

Remember we need your help to update our records of birthdays and important anniversaries.

AJP

Editor's note: The erroneous insertion of "90th" before "Birthday" in last month's Link, making it look as if we were congratulating Joan on reaching that wonderful milestone, was down to me. In my haste to get the magazine to the printers having just moved home and then going on holiday, obviously proved too much, and in overtyping Freddie's 90th birthday congratulations from the previous month, the "90th" failed to be deleted! So apologies from me too, Joan, and hopefully, it caused a few smiles.

“Let Justice Prevail”

This year's Women's World Day of Prayer service will be held on Friday 2nd March. It has been prepared by Christian women of Malaysia, a multi-ethnic and multi-religious country, and one of the wealthiest and most developed countries in South East Asia.

Women have made important contributions to its social and economic development, but still face discrimination and violence at all levels of society. Although Malaysia's multi-ethnicity has added to the rich heritage of its land and people, it has also given rise to many problems. It is now the most popular destination country in Asia for migrant workers, and human trafficking has become a sophisticated and organised operation. These issues are woven into the service and the women voice their hope for the future. Justice for all is their hope, and their prayer is "Let Justice Prevail".

Further information and resources, together with details of services in your area, can be found on the WWDP website at www.wwdp-natcomm.org.

Could you help Effingham Chapel host their Women's World Day of Prayer service on Friday 2nd March at 7.30pm?

It's our turn to host one of the local services, and as the Chapel is small, we've been allocated the evening service. So we need volunteers to help with this special occasion. Could you be one of the Readers during the service? Could you decorate the Chapel or maybe help with food ?

We can borrow a national flag, but need ideas - Malaysia's national flower is the Hibiscus.

The speaker will be Bex Keer, a UK manager for Stop the Traffic, a charity working with the United Nations for a global solution to Trafficking. To add your signature to their campaign to prevent the sale of people, protect the trafficked and prosecute the traffickers go to www.stopthetraffik.org/getinvolved/declaration.aspx

A slight case of Nimbyism?

Oh Dear! NIMBY is an acronym for the phrase "not in my back yard". Nimbyism is used to describe opposition by residents to a proposal for a new development close to them. HmMMMM!!!

Local residents have recently been invited to have their say on plans for a new care home in Effingham, which would "provide 70 elderly people with nursing and dementia support." The proposals are a joint project between a specialist care home developer and a health and social care services provider. These plans will apparently help fill an increasingly urgent shortfall of 289 care home beds in the Effingham area. Care services for those suffering with dementia in the local area are also currently 530 bed spaces short and under mounting pressure. "It is expected that the care home will also create up to 60 new jobs in a range of different roles, many of which will go to local people" so we are told !

The facility may also offer a hairdresser, café, mini-cinema and drop-in day-care, which must raise concerns for local businesses. Locals are also worried that this development is totally out of scale with all other buildings in the centre of this historic village. The site is a small green belt field in the conservation area, surrounded by listed buildings, and will exit onto Lower Road roughly opposite the Roman Catholic Church, just yards from St. Lawrence Primary School and the Howard of Effingham. It is very busy already, especially during the school run peak period. Staff shift patterns will avoid peak times apparently but what about visitors and deliveries?

Detailed plans for the new care home will be submitted to Guildford Borough Council early next year. If approved, work will start in autumn 2012 and the care home will open in autumn 2013.

I must confess I'm not keen, even though I'm probably a possible future user of such facilities. So call me a nimby, but I've checked the carehome provider's website. I just hope and pray that the local council will make the right decision for our village.

AJP

My resolution for 2012

This year Angela and I spent a lot of time studying the history of the Bible in English, so now I have decided to try and get to know its contents a little better this coming year.

We discovered how important it was for the Bible translators to communicate the real meaning of the gospel to their readers. So important in fact, that many of them were prepared to die or risk death so that the truth should be revealed. They were often well educated churchmen, living in a very violent world, who, once caught up by the Spirit, wanted not only to preserve the truth but to pass the Good News on in a language that could be understood by everyone.

It was their wish that everyone should have the opportunity to read the Bible and so it is not difficult to see how the printed Bible took off and eventually how church schools came into being, giving ordinary folk the chance of a simple education, learning to read and write with studies often centred around the Bible.

Reading the Bible was a good start for anyone, as the example of Jesus and His teachings were a really good pattern for life. It was only during the period of enlightenment, when geological and scientific studies started to be taken more seriously and widely publicised, that some Biblical ideas came into question.

Many of the early pioneers of science were men of the cloth who were not only convinced by God's Word but fascinated by His world. They were challenged by their findings and how it all fitted in with the teaching of the Bible and the Church. In our generation we face the same challenges, as science tries to replace God. When you read the Bible are you challenged? We hear it read every Sunday in our churches and it is part of the Methodist tradition to have it explained by the preacher and to attend a regular Bible Class during the week, but what does it mean for us today ?

2012 sees the celebration of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. At her coronation 60 years ago she was presented with a Bible and the words "Here is Wisdom, this is the Royal Law, these are the lively oracles of God". I pray that I may consider them so and value them as she has throughout her reign.

Radical Welcome

These sessions are an important way of thinking about how we present ourselves to the world, and how we can improve our mission to offer the welcome of Jesus to our community.

We will be using a course called 'Everybody welcome'. It uses a DVD and there is a members' manual at £3.99 that it would be useful for participants to buy. (Copies will be available at the Covenant service on 8th January.)

The meetings are at Christ Church at 7.30pm on Thursday evenings:

12th January: Discover: making the church more visible

9th February: The Premises: making them more inviting

8th March: A welcoming God and his welcoming people

This course also offers us an opportunity for the communities at LMC and Christ Church to get to know each other at a deeper level, and I hope as many as possible will feel able to come.

Christ Church and LMC, joint Elders and Leadership Team meeting

The elders of Christ Church and the LMC Leadership Team met together on 22nd November to discuss matters of mutual interest and concern.

We heard inspiring reports from Jay Bristow and Jane Smith on the work with children and young people being done in the churches' name.

We also agreed to set up a group of three from each church to begin the process of drawing up a joint mission statement and profile for the two churches to help us plan positively for the future together.

Another issue we talked about was the need for better communication between the two churches. To help in this it was agreed that LMC would appoint two observers to come to Christ Church Church Meetings, and Christ Church would appoint two observers to come to LMC Church Councils.

The group agreed to meet together three times a year.

New

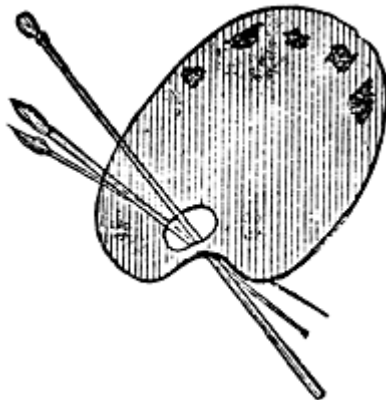

New year, new beginnings,
Stretched out like a pristine canvas
And an unused palette of colours
To paint the coming year.

But is it quite as it seems?
Can we really wipe out the 'before'?
Past colours of life –

The greens of new growth;
The purple of darker spells,
Or perhaps indicating right royal times;
Blue for the flowing movement of life,
Mixed with sunshine yellow and rich red,
And the bright orange of high days and holidays,
All must be combined, blended
To shade in the year to come.

A poised brush waits to curve a rainbow of hope,
The watching and waiting, the anticipation of fulfilment,
And the potful of memories at the end.
Each moment that passes, such a brief time,
Becomes another memento.
New is so transitory!
